I'm an APRN, so this was rather basic for me

Not my favorite session. Didn't really have a lot of take away for me. I could have just read the slides

EXPECTED MORE INFO ON ACTUAL NUTRITIONAL SUPPLEMENTS (OTHER THAN PILLS)

Great review of alternatives and education of antibiotics. Nice to hear outcomes of alternatives.

lots of wonderful information about nutrition and antibiotics

Very basic but good info

good review of medications & supplements

very informative

Not too excited about this talk. How about pharmas for specific diseases? Crohn's, burns, vasculitis?

Very good presentation on the impact of nutrition on wound healing, current agents used to treat wound infection and how to assess an infected wound

I especially appreciated the review of appetite stimulant drugs and the warnings about time limits and adverse effects.

Very good presentation

I found this session extremely helpful.

I really enjoyed learning about how herbal medications can affect wound healing and different types of antibiotic therapy treatments.

good information. good update and review.

Good update.

I could have read the power point and learned as much. I felt that this was targeted to FNPs or PAs more than wound care nurses.

I felt this session was more suited for NPs-- and I would've liked to have heard more about medications and topicals that we use in practice more often such as Santyl, Silvadene and Medihoney.

Very interesting and this lecture contained a lot of valuable information that can be put to immediate use.

This presentation helped pull things together for me.

Somewhat helpful for my practice to consider holistic approach to healing.

good for people who prescribe, overwhelming for those who don't. glad to see something for advanced professionals

great review

Phyllis is a good speaker just way too much information to process. And way too much information for and an hour lecture. The hour went by too quickly and is was a good lecture, good lecture voice.

very important

As an advanced practice nurse, I really appreciate the pharmacology presentation. Thanks Phyllis!!!

Very helpful information. Professional and interesting.

would like to know more about efficacy of topical ABX

The listing on each antibiotic and its indications/side effects wasn't helpful and dry. It would have been more interesting going into the effects of different therapies such as Vitamin A when on steroids and/or different over the counter agents that nur

Most informative. Needed more information along these lines.

Very professional and knowledgeable. Information helpful

Good information

Enlightening information, wonderful speaker

Great info for day to day practice.

Good basic overview of key labs and also key supplements.

Perhaps too much detail for time allotted and really geared to APRNs (which I am not) but also provided some good information

Using Albumin and Prealbumin as indicator of protein levels is outdated information according the 2012 ASPEN guidelines and the NPUAP 2014 guidelines due to its sensitivities to inflammatory markers, dehydration, etc.

One of my weaker areas. Happy to see this information.

Phyllis was able to demonstrate an excellent example of why to pursue academic advancement as a WOC nurse.

Most of the information was not new, but there were some really good tidbits and great review.

Very knowledgeable speaker.

I have wanted information about this topic for some time. Thank you so much.

Enjoyed the topic - wish it had be focused toward supplements and nutrition

I loved this session however I am a nurse practitioner. Might be better as pre-conference.

This session I am sure was more meaningful for providers

Part of this seemed more suited for Advanced Practice nurses with ordering and prescribing capabilities (which is probably what it was supposed to be suited for.) It did reinforce my practice of requesting biopsies for wound etiology,etc.

Great Session

good info especially on the abx we regularly see

Great information

I REALLY LIKED THE FOCUS OF THIS PRESENTATION. NOT WHAT I EXPECTED AND VERY VERY HELPFUL!!!

Good session
