Great information presented by a nurse practitioner. Thank you Ms. Dunn.

Entertaining and insightful

Very interesting and holistic look at sexuality and the ostomate.

Rather dry presentation but encouraging to discuss with patients.

Great reminder to bring up the subject with new ostomates. I sometimes don't and I will in the future. Glad that female sexual dysfunction was covered as this has always been a concern of mine. Great job including the quotes from INSPIRE.

Dull power point presentation(white background with black lettering).Needed some color to stimulate interest.

Helpful for preop and postop educational opportunities with patient teaching. Very enjoyable speaker, knowledgeable re topic, sense of humor. Feels our pain.

I really enjoyed the speaker.

Excellent topic for conference since this topic is one that does not get covered near enough with our patients. The more we know the better we get at counseling our patients.

This was a valuable topic to include. WOC RNs need to have more tools and feel empowered to address these issues with our patients.

Speaker needs to slow down speech and learn to project her voice. Good material, difficult to hear at times great to know specific ways to talk to patients. verifies the importance of sex (emotionally and physically) post ostomy/surgery and the fact that people especially doctors don't talk about it

Interesting perspective in a topic some forget to address

Very interesting topic; one that is not discussed often. Truly effects patients life/recovery.

I wish some of the slides would have stayed up longer to read...there were some good ones!

This is an important topic and is usually glossed over. I was wondering how the speaker would incorporate such intimate details into a lecture. She did a fabulous job!

Great information about a topic that isn't easy to discuss. Great lecture.

good info

Concise explanation of why dysfunction can occur, seems like there are more treatment options for men than women...

Very interesting speaker, kept subject light but still helpful for us

Really helped me be able to answer sex questions for my patients

I really liked how Mary was able to not only explain how to talk to these patients, but gave us an explanation as to why this happens. This was an interesting topic and I learned a lot from her lecture.

Mary is very soft spoken and had a great overview in her lecture.

learned new ways to approach a delicate area with pts

she was hard to understand. She spoke too fast and mumbled somewhat. Her content was great. But she was hard to understand. She used a lot of abbreviations but did not explain their meanings.

Speaker spoke too fast and was quite monotone. Powerpoint slides were not left on screen long enough to view them.

great speaker

very informative, reinforces that we need to bring this subject up to our patients

Great speaker. She was knowledgeable and presented effectively. It was nice to hear from a new speaker. Interesting topic.

Well done.

Wonderful

The pictures and explanations of nerve sparing vs non nerve sparing surgery was helpful.

challenging

She was a lively fun speaker, great presentation

Wonderful presentation about a topic most do not want to talk about. Great review of anatomy and what challenges pts face post-op that they may not be prepared for due to lack of education pre-op. Great information to share with family member that may ha

I thought Mary Dunn was a great speaker-- you can tell she's very passionate about her work.

wonderful presentation! Great topic, thank you!!

good review

Ideas or communication with specific patient responses would have been helpful.

This session discussed the gap that still exists in discussing and providing adequate teaching and resources to patients experiencing sexual dysfunctions very interesting perspective and learned a lot

What a wonderful and professional presentation on this topic. She did a really good job talking about it as it pertains to her patient population and how we can help.

I had a lot of difficulty understanding this presenter...she spoke very quickly and I missed most of the sarcasm/humor due to not being able to hear her. Guess that shows I am indeed getting old, but I still wanted to hear the sex lecture great presentation. Very good info I need. Daily practice. Presented in easy manner which I hope to transmit into easy presentation /discussion with patients

Great topic for the clinician

Hard subject done well

Excellent and helpful advice for nurses and WOC nurses appreciated.

Excellent panel of speakers

Good speaker. It would have been beneficial to have more discussion of patients with ostomies methods they could use during intimacy such as lingerie, sexual alternatives, etc..
