enjoyed posters. Would like to see ample take home posters available.

Overall, great posters. The poster with the young ostomate and an educational booklet was excellent.

I was very surprised the maggot poster didn't at least place. It was by far the best.

Silverlon with VAC and poster on scales really pertinent to practice loved the posters. Missed the handouts.

Great posters this year!

really liked poster regarding "purple" wounds, informative

There were several VERY good posters, and the overall quality keeps going up. Nice!

I was very interested in several ideas from the posters. The Pure Wick External Cath was very creative. The Jackson Cubbin Scale was also brand new to me. There were many studies that made me think of new ways to approach my care for patients.

I thought the posters were very good this year.

I enjoyed being able to speak with the authors describing their work. I was disappointed when the author was not present.

Childrens book for ostomies was great, Road blocks

great variety if concepts liked that there were a smaller number this year. able to absorb more that way

Excellent topics - especially liked All Things Purple and It's Just an OstoME

Great posters this year.

lots of variety

Some really great poster presentations this year. Makes me compelled to develop one for conference.

I actually viewed all the posters and found them all informative and educational

SCALE.....new to me.....study and research ahead Maggots....under utilized option

Thanks for the info on pamphlets for children with ostomies. I also especially enjoyed the info on maggot therapy.

Best group of posters ever! Kudos to all who presented!

some very nice research

I am interested to find out more information about the external catheter to help keep urine out of the wound beds and also prevent infection from cauti's. Glad to see that the circadian compression option in the home health or home setting was actually m

The posters/display on the different etiologies of wounds with the 3 case studies was really informative for me. It helped me to differentiate better, such as DTI vs other etiology due to red base; and the SCALE description was top notch. Another one was Excellent information.

some very nice research

Excellent posters, very informative

I enjoyed each poster and all have given me ideas to take back to my practice.

Thoroughly enjoyed reading the poster content.

would have liked hard copies of the posters

The posters were wonderful this year!

Great posters, plan on exploring the silver fabric under the NPWT foam myself

Loved the "Maggot Debridement Therapy" poster! Was very interesting research

Thanks to all who presented their work and insight on variety of topics and products. Viewed posters at conference but will certainly study posters online.

would have liked to have had question and answer period with those that made the posters Especially found the poster by Susie Scott useful. Found information on not all scales are equal useful in assessing risk in critical care patients useful.

Interesting new information well presented.

What great poster presentations this year!!!

liked the female incontinence info and the preoperative poster

Enjoyed the boards that had everything on one poster.

Liked how the posters were placed in area where one could easily view between sessions and on free time. Also posted in open area, not crowded together.

very excited about the scott triggers and bringing new practice back to my facility

Awesome posters from peers!

favorites were "save our skin" and "applying the pressure"

Some awesome Posters...was able to talk with several of the owners.

I found the results in post op ambulation surprising although I had heard a surgeon mention this-would still encourage it for many other reasons. Was completely unfamiliar w/ silver plated fabric?? My favorite is the skin champions--we are looking to star thought posters were great, gave me great ideas for things to try at my institution

Some really good ideas about complicated wound management

I really liked the PI tool kit poster, so much so I took a copy home!

While SER wants to encourage posters 1 person did not demonstrate professionalism in her presentation for 2 years in a row, although the content was interesting. Everyone else did a wonderful job and it is nice to see so many posters at SER and increasin always awesome to appreciate our colleagues' published work

All posters were excellent, informative, and interesting. Well done.

Very well done and educational

Every poster was relevant, and even though the information on the external urine collection device was not in "poster format" I am so glad the information was presented! Great networking opportunity.

Great diversity

i feel that participants should have presented a poster instead of printed sheets.
