Great and informative

Excellent

This sometimes overwhelming problem was made a little simpler today!

What a wealth of knowledge. Appreciate the time it took to collect great images!

Please use stage or podium...type on slides was too small. .but great content TY

For future presentations please use a larger font size. From the back of the room, I could not read the slides. Even with my glasses on! National WOCN does not approve the use of WOCNs. We are WOC nurses.

Great photos, Sharon needs to work on pronunciation and speak slower, used the word "THEN" too much. Liked it when photos were step by step procedure

Great pictures and very good info

Pictures were great. Would love to have more time for discussion for things like this. Learn how other manage this fistulas.

Good presentation!

very interesting

Fantastic!

Speaker was a little nervous at first, but soon got into the groove of the lecture. Great tips for pouching really enjoy hearing her, it would help so much to see variations of this and be able to have more time for questions/personal case studies or patients we are struggling with for feedback.

Wonderful presentation. The presenter was fantastic!

I felt that some of this was pretty basic, but I have an extraordinary amount of experience with fistula management. Crusts a lot more than I do with the advent of cyanoacrylate topical treatment.

Speaker provided many tips on creating a seal.

This was an amazing presentation that gave hands-on solutions that met the needs of my patient population directly.

Learning from Sharon this year and last year has given me more confidence in caring for patients with containment issues. So thankful for her!

challenging topic- great info

overall session was very informative

Awesome photos!

It would have been nice if she had brought samples of the pouches she used and had them displayed on a table.

Thank you.

Love her use of real life examples

Did a great job showing pictures and visuals of complex fistula pouching.

Sometimes the speaker was hard to follow in her explanation of the process she used for some of the more complicated pouching systems she developed.

Good information

stop saying the word THEN in your presentations - it's a terrible stop gap

Very well presented! Learned several new techniques to manage fistula output. Would love to "Shadow Sharon" for a few days!

excellent case studies

Excellent presentation and speaker for what is surely the staff RN's nightmare.

Speaker is very knowledgeable about the subject. Enjoyed the step by step pictures of pouching the complex fistulas.

Informative and helpful for future fistulas

Speaker provided some very interesting and noteworthy options for pouching and managing fistulas.

She obviously knows what she's talking about but it got a bit confusing. It's hard to explain complicated fistula management

Excellent presentation. Thank you.
